

The Cutting Edge: Practice Nurse Skills Training

Saturday 15 May 2021

The Cutting Edge: Practice Nurse Skills Training workshop is designed to offer nurses information and skills in procedural assistance.

It is directed at nurses starting out in the community practice who have moved from a career in hospital wards or aged care, or those who are newly graduated and seeking a position in general practice.

This workshop is also appropriate for nurses who would like to streamline their treatment room and update their skills, perhaps before GP practice accreditation.

CTEC acknowledges the educational contribution provided by the UWA School of Population Health in the development of this workshop.
